

Abstract of the Disclosure

A recording medium apparatus has a storage section for storing a plurality of recording media, an ejection slot for ejecting the recording media stored in the storage section to the outside of the apparatus, a designation section (an user operation section and a OSD) to designate recording media which is to be ejected through the ejection slot out of the plurality of recording media stored in the storage section, and a control section (a system controller) for consecutively executing ejection of the recording media designated through the designation section in sequence.